SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Hanchan, 46, of Springfield, Ill., appeared in federal court yesterday on a charge of mailing a box of poisoned candy to a Rock Island, Ill., woman who, a prosecutor said, was her rival for the affections of a man. where the Senator's body lay in state and an estimated 30,000 people lined the route of the cortege.

At the church a virtual mountain of flowers filled the altar and the overflow was arranged on the church steps and the lawn outside.

IN AN ELEGANT tribute to the late Senator's character and accomplishments, Dean Swanson likened Senator McGeer to the immortal American statesman Abraham Lincoln, whose exemplary life was a life-long inspiration to the colorful and fiery Canadian politician.

Dean Swanson said it was "not inappropriate to feel that there was something of our own quality in the man who not only saw vision but had the sheer courage to follow it."

"He will long be remembered, in fact, as one of the most colorful figures in the public life of this Dominion," one who not only saw vision but had the sheer courage to follow it."

"A reporter who met him during the Vancouver jubilee celebrations in 1937 wrote: 'Just to look at him you could tell there was Irish blood in Gerry McGeer. He had a red open face with that typical low and wide upper lip that is a compound of pugacity and humor. On the platform he could raise a storm or quell one with equal ease. Above all he was a fearless man of action with a prophetic vision of the strategic greatness of Vancouver in the world. This indeed was one of those emigrant Irishmen who have made a lasting mark on the British Commonwealth.'"

A special escort of police and firemen, headed by the firemen's band and police pipe band, accompanied by a detachment of Royal Canadian Mounted Police, led the cortege from the cathedral to Mountain View Cemetery, where cremation took place.

PALLBEARERS WERE Mayor McGeer's six nephews — Dudley McGeer, James McGeer Campbell, Peter McGeer, Pat McGeer, Victor and David Spencer.

Honorary pallbearers included British Columbia Senators S. S. McKenna and J. G. Targion, Chief Justice W. B. Parris, Premier John Hart of B.C., together with several provincial cabinet ministers, Mayor W. F. Devin of Seattle, Wash., Mayor W. M. Mott of New Westminster, B.C., and ten ranking officers of the three armed services.

Mine Disaster

ed for all of the 137 trapped men. A blast, which destroyed nine galleries in the 140-year-old William Colliery under the hills of northwest England shattered the workings and sent deadly carbon monoxide fumes rolling through the shaft.

When the explosion occurred, 10 men in a new shaft were escaping the fumes of the conflagration. One of the 137 who had entered the pits yesterday afternoon was killed and left the shaft shortly before the blast.

ONLY FOUR of the first 34 bodies recovered had been brought to the surface by a member of the National Coal Board announced that there was little hope that any of the 107 survived.

Just before noon rescue crews broke through the last rubble blocking passage to the area where the miners were trapped. They began searching the mine for survivors and offshoots for the remainder of the day.

Authorities announced that 189 men entered the shaft last night. The first 137 were killed. The last 52 were rescued.

Prof. T. W. COLES established during visits to families of the miners that two men died in the mine. The bodies were found while a doctor was operating on him. The doctor quickly made an incision over the heart and manipulated it manually until it began to beat again.

red state governments and local government bodies to bank with private banks.

ROBERT MENZIES, leader of the opposition, said that Mr. Menzies' announcement was "staggering and unbelievable."

It sounded like a "piece of petty pique" over the high court's decision, he declared. The Sydney Morning Herald estimated that the value of private banks was $200,000,000, shareholders numbered 70,000.

Australia's biggest legal battle may follow expected opposition to the high court to the nationalization move. It was learned authoritatively here.

Taxpayers will have to meet between $200,000,000 and $400,000,000 in compensation to the shareholders in the country's private banking companies.

On the date fixed for their transfer to the state probably in six months, every private bank will be eliminated.

1944 Blast Victim

BURTON - ON - TRENT, Detroit, Aug. 16.—(Reuters)—A bulldozer crew has found the body of Stephan West, a tractor driver, in the quarter-mile crater left by Britain's biggest explosion, three years ago near here. West disappeared with his tractor in the explosion which killed 66, injured 22 and blew a whole farm to bits.

The explosion occurred at 7 p.m. BST yesterday and apparently was centred two miles from the mine's main vertical shaft.

MINE OFFICIALS gave assurance that there was no possibility that the blast would open the seam and let the sea rush in.

The William Mine was dug in 1807, and is England's oldest underground working. Many other coal mines in the area existed under the water, and have had their own accidents—including one of England's worst, which killed 136 in 1910 at the nearby Wellington.

From 1921, when municipal districts were first brought under the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act, until 1946, councilors were regarded by the courts as "workmen" within the meaning of the act and accordingly received the protection the act afforded.

IN NOVEMBER, 1945, it was ruled that councilors were not "workmen" within the meaning of the act and therefore not legally entitled to the protection. In view of this information councilors were excluded from the payroll returns of all municipal districts with the result that they are now denied protection against accidents received in carrying out their official duties.

A resolution that councilors be included in the act was submitted to the provincial cabinet in December, 1945, and the cabinet did not offer any objection to the request contained in the resolution. It was, however, deferred until the quinquennial revision was made.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(AP)—United Nations diplomats announced today that the United Nations Security Council might reject the latest United States proposal for a Balkan border watch without a Russian veto.

It was considered possible in some circles that the American proposal would fail to get the necessary seven votes, the majority required, to carry the proposal.

One well-placed American source said, however, the United States thought it already had lined up enough votes to carry the proposal. It is believed that the general assembly will meet in September.

FRANCE, COLOMBIA and Syria could spring the surprise by refusing to vote for the Russian veto Tuesday by American Deputy Delegate Herschel Johnson together with already announced that the United States would seek a Russian veto.

THE EXPLOSION in the 140-year-old William Colliery occurred two miles out under the sea. Attributed to a coal seam, it filled 250 yards of the shaft with rubble and sent deadly carbon monoxide gas through the mine.

Ten men were known to have survived. Throughout the night, a crowd of 2,000 persons sat around the mine mouth, grimly evicting the three green toolboxes which were turned over to emergency mortuaries.

The blast, threatening one of the worst mine disasters in British history, shattered 250 yards of a tunnel stretching out under the Solway Firth, an arm of the Irish Sea.

A rescue worker, 36-year-old John McAlister, who had three relatives trapped, emerged from the pit after a four-hour effort to free the victims. "I'm all right," he said. "I fear there is little hope."

RELATIVES of the missing men gathered at the mine mouth for the crumbs of news which they could get. The men, mostly hardy sons and daughters of generations of miners, were dazed.

Only one ambulance stood by during the night, but others were ordered to the mine as rescuers neared the blast scene.

Huge timbers were passed down the shaft to brace the cracked walls and stop the rock-falls which, along with gas, hampered early rescue work. By dawn, however, workers wearing special rescue apparatus reported good ventilation had been restored.

The explosion occurred at 7 p.m. BST yesterday and apparently was centred two miles from the mine's main vertical shaft.

MINE OFFICIALS gave assurance that there was no possibility that the blast would open the seam and let the sea rush in.

A high official of the resource department said today at Ottawa that as far as he knew the government has not yet received an official word on the possibility of Alberta joining Ontario in the bringing in of "thousands" of

Britain Grateful For Canada Food

LONDON, Aug. 16.—(Reuters).—Food Minister Strachey has sent thanks to Canada for "a grand job" in a letter to Norman Robertson, Canadian High Commissioner, was disclosed yesterday. Referring to a recent purchase of 70,000 tons of potatoes from Canada, Strachey said: "We would like to offer you my gratitude for what your countrymen have done."

JOHN OLIVER

I am sure that during the years in particular, the average man would have preferred to write "Tipperary," "Colonel Bogey," "Keep the Home Fires Burning," "There's a Long Long Trail" or "Pack Up Your Troubles," than to have composed the masterworks of leading contemporary composers — great as they are — such as Elgar or Richard Strauss. Imagine having been able to write a "Tipperary" or "Bogey" to which men marched into battle, and to die with unquenchable spirits, staunch hearts, and songs on their lips.

This column has received a letter from A. Carolyn Bayfield, of this city, which says as follows:

"Some wise guy across the line has said, 'Give me to write the nation's songs and I care not who writes their 14 points.' Canada today is putting herself on the map with all, wheat and atomic energy. But we hear very little about her cultural life, and especially her song writers. An opportunity is now being offered to Alberta to do something about this. A group is now busy organizing and Edmonton could do well to be the jewel of another new industry. She is on the world's way. She has heard through her own publishing houses and her songwriters. It is opportunity's call, and destiny hour."

It is good to know that steps are being taken to organize songwriters, and to take steps to publish their works. Also, the writer of the letter quoted above has raised some interesting points.

There will be a 40-piece band, under the baton of Lee Rogers, Jack Donatien, tenor will be the soloist: Lee Rogers, the announcer and lighting effects will be by Max Adams.

The program will include a selection of Rudolf Primi melodies; a melody drawn from the works of the great Victor Herbert; a selection from "Oklahoma," the song, My Hero, from "The Chocolate Soldier," the melody "Colonel Bogey" on Parade; "Valse Bluette," Stars and Stripes Forever, Mardi Gras from Perle Grolé's "Mistrali," and several other numbers.

Lee Rogers, the band conductor, who started off his musical career as a member of the Schoolboys Band under T. V. Neville, will remain his first opportunities for conducting. In the recent war, Mr. Rogers served with the R.C.A.F. and spent a year at Calgary. On the outbreak of the war, he was posted under Edward Kirkwood, he was posted as assistant bandmaster.

Now at the outset let it be understood that no details of the program outlined in the Bayfield letter are available, and any reference herein to anybody connected with it, to quote the radio mystery plays, is "purely coincidental."

Most of the songwriters are very much in the embryo stage. Most have had no technical training in musical composition, and are usually saying, "O I just didn't know it in 15 minutes or so," remembering having read somewhere that Mozart penned the overture to "The Marriage of Figaro" in a few short hours, and Handel composed "The Messiah" in six weeks.

Also, they usually feel a little when harmonic and other discrepancies are pointed out.

None would think of embarking on construction of the George Washington suspension bridge at New York without the highest engineering qualifications. Only an imbecile would attempt a major surgical operation without the best education obtainable. Yet they expect to "dash off" an immortal song, without knowing more than the elements of music.

Another matter in which the imbecile, as Schubert takes a deep interest is the matter of copyright. As a rule, a copyright is obtained almost before the ink is dry, and great fear is expressed that the big city music publishers have "stolen" the song. There is little to fear on this point. The big publishing firms on both sides of the Atlantic, firms that published the music of the nightingales, and as just as honest as any other big firm. They have their reputations to preserve, and they are no more anxious to do business in an underhand way, than any reputable firm. One proof of this, is the infinitesimal number of plagiarisms since filed against them.

Music publishers are in business for the same reason as most people — to make money. They will look out for good, saleable, well-written, new music. If a song, or other work, is sent to them, and they think it has possibilities, they will accept it and immediately pay an advance royalty. If they think it has no chance of success, it is returned.

But remember, most music publishers have established connections with leading composers. Naturally they will look more favorably on the new work by a Victor Herbert, Rudolf Primi, Sigmund Romberg, Jerome Kern or Irving Berlin than they will an unsolicited opus from an unknown, that isn't even properly harmonized or written clearly. Also, knowing all the leading composers, a publisher can send out a call to theory for a certain type of song. While there are many instances of publishers gaining wrong on popular numbers, their average still remains pretty high.

The big publishers have contracts all over the world, with singers, bands, orchestras and others who can "plug" their works. The isolated publisher fights a lone hand against overwhelming odds.

While this column wishes Alberta songwriters every success, he also hopes that the songwriters will see to it that their words are good and that their music is good, both locally or practically, well harmonized and well arranged, even if an amateurish effort to be in to do the technical work.

The world is waiting for good songs, but they have to be good when they are in competition with the best of the great world, romantic and modern masters.

THOSE two ubiquitous, versatile baseball moguls, John Ducey and John Beatty have expanded their activities to embrace the concert field. Mr. Ducey announced today that as from now he and his partner, Mr. Beatty, have taken over the concert management of Henfrow Park as well as its baseball destiny. Although a couple of concerts already have been given at the park, they were not under the Ducey-Beatty sign. Hereafter, and until further notice, they will be.

"We are only babes in the wood in the concert field," quoth Mr. Ducey. But in order that they may not come to temporary grief like Emanuel and Greta, they have retained as their concert representative,

Will Play Here

MARY MUIR, of Montreal, one of Canada's outstanding pianists, who will appear here in recital in September, under the auspices of the Women's Association of First Baptist Church.

here until early in October, when he will return to Toronto, to continue his studies.

With the advent into the concert field of Messrs. Ducey and Beatty, music will have two good supporters. Both are fond of good music, and as Henfrow Park, in its renovated and up-to-date form, largely is a tribute to their ability and diligence, it is to be hoped they will be equally successful in concert promotion.

MARY MUIR, distinguished Canadian pianist, is scheduled to appear in recital here in the last week of September, the exact date to be set in the immediate future. She will play at First Baptist Church, under the sponsorship of the Women's Association of that church. She gave a recital here once before, at the Masonic conducting class. She will remain in the Temple, under the banner of the Women's Musical Club. She is regarded as one of this country's most distinguished artists, and her appearance is expected to be one of the earliest features of the new musical season.

She was born, without sight, in Montreal, but her parents insisted that she be educated in an ordinary school with children who could see. She was graduated from McGill University in the class of 1928.

Her program will include the Brahms Overture, Fantasy and Fugue in G Minor; Mozart's Sonata No. 32; Franck's Prelude, Aria and Fugue; Mendelssohn's Fairy Tale No. 1 and 3 and Joy, opus 7 No. 1; Prokofiev's Gavotte, opus 12, No. 7 and Chopin's Prelude, opus 23, No. 7.

THE Municipal Chapter IODE is contemplating a series of three concerts during the coming season, to be known as the Canadian Artists Club. This was decided at a meeting of the executive on June 23, and it is to take the form of a "publicity undertaking" in accordance with aims of the order. Promotion of young talent will be placed

The first concert will take place at 9 p.m. on Sunday, in the Garrison theatre on a date in September, to be set later.

The three attractions will be: Laura, a list including Fortia White, contralto; Mary Henderson, soprano; Muriel Kelly, marionette; Natalie Munro, vocalist; Sophie Lefebvre, pianist; and a orchestra from Toronto directed by Samuel Herscovici.

Follow the Adventures of DICK TRACY Daily

TRACY'S ARRIVAL AT COFFYHEAD'S APARTMENT IS SO SUDDEN THAT COFFYHEAD AND HIS PAL SCARCELY HAVE ENOUGH TIME TO DUCK INTO THE BUILDING ACROSS THE STREET, WHERE THEY LOOK ON FROM A SECOND-FLOOR LANDING.

IT'S THEIR BODIES! THE WORLD NOW HAS TWO FEWER "CRIME STOPPERS."

GOSH, I DIDN'T THINK THAT GAS WAS SO FAST-ACTING.

THEY CAN'T TALK. THEY CAN'T IDENTIFY US. LET'S SHAKE, LUGI!

NO, SIR, I DIDN'T THINK IT'D KILL THAT QUICK.

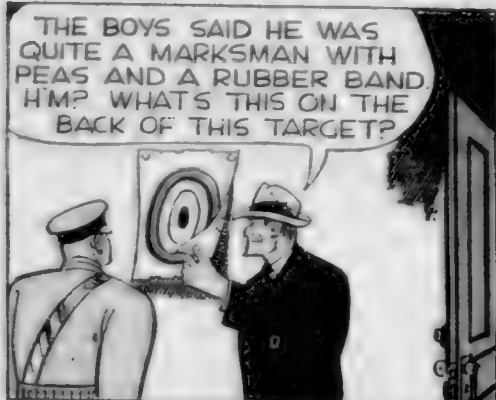

EASY, BOYS!

THIS CALLS FOR A CELEBRATION! AS SOON AS THE COAST'S CLEAR, WE'LL GO TO YOUR BROTHER'S.

CARRY THAT GAS DRUM BY THIS PIECE OF STRING. THERE MAY BE FINGERPRINTS.

—AND PUT THE OXYGEN KIT IN THE CAR.

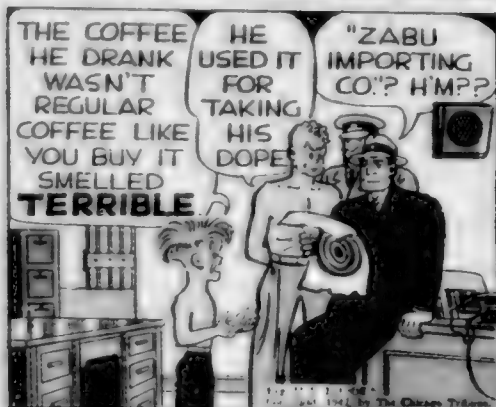

THE BOYS SAID HE WAS QUITE A MARKSMAN WITH PEAS AND A RUBBER BAND. H'M? WHAT'S THIS ON THE BACK OF THIS TARGET?

YOU BOYS CAN SIT UP NOW, BUT TRACY WANTS YOU TO STAY IN THE AMBULANCE. WE'RE GOING TO HEADQUARTERS.

VEAH. HE WANTED IT TO APPEAR WE WERE DEAD IN CASE THE PLACE WAS BEING WATCHED.

A LABEL ON THE BACK OF THIS WRAPPING PAPER TARGET, SAYS "ZABU IMPORTING CO." SOMETHING HAD BEEN MAILED TO COFFYHEAD.

THE COFFEE HE DRANK WASN'T REGULAR COFFEE LIKE YOU BUY IT SMELLED TERRIBLE

HE USED IT FOR TAKING HIS DOPE

"ZABU IMPORTING CO." H'M??

LATER IN AN OLD GARAGE, UPTOWN. SURE YOU CAN STAY HERE, COFFYHEAD, BUT THESE COTS AIN'T TOO COMFORTABLE

THIS'LL BE GREAT! PLUG IN THE HOT PLATE, LUGI.

LATER THAT EVENING, TRACY TAKES A STROLL—ALONE! HE IS INTERESTED ONLY IN ONE ADDRESS.

A FROG HUNT

THIS is a mighty busy season among the Teenie Weenies, for they must store away food to last all Winter. The vegetables from the Teenie Weenie garden have to be taken out of the ground and prepared for Winter use. Corn and beans are dried as well as some fruit. A few things are put up in Teenie Weenie jars. Carrots, potatoes and usually a parsnip and a turnip are stored away in the food cellar, which has been built under a small hill in the Teenie Weenie village.

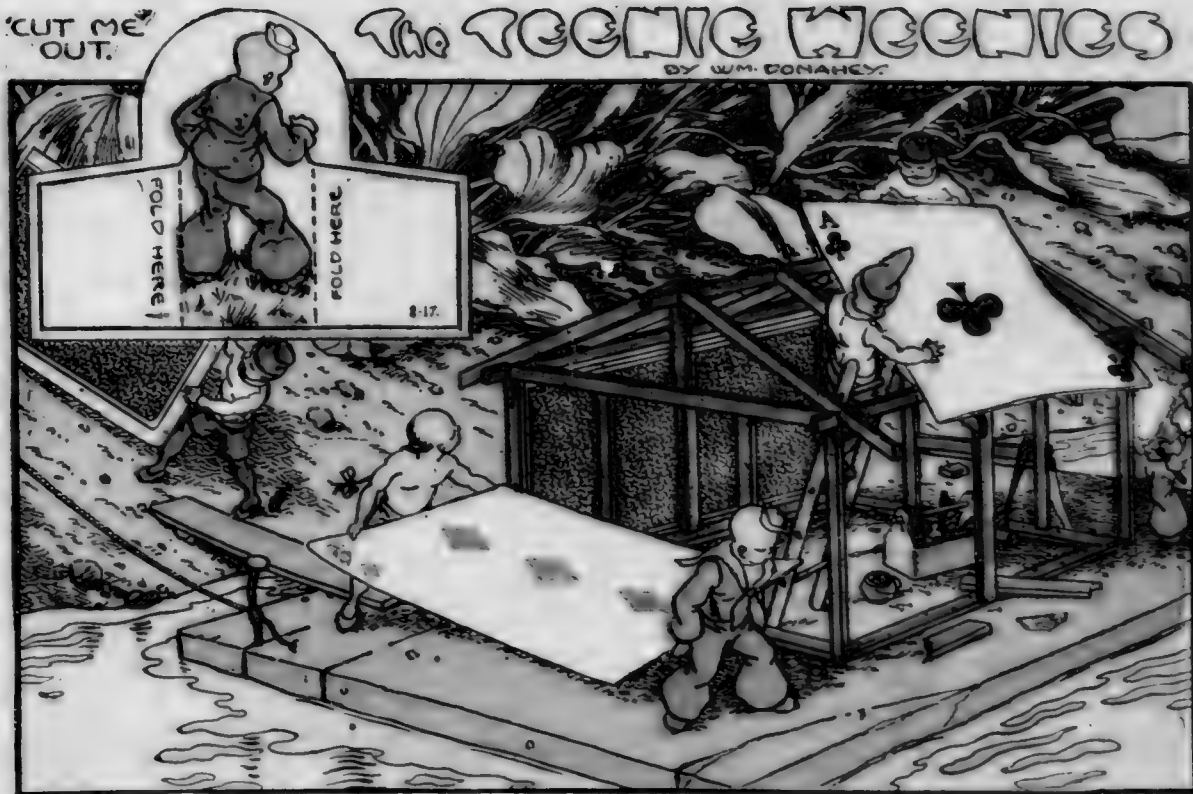

During the Summer the little folk smoke several minnows and pickle a few in brine. They also put up several thimbles of crawfish. But the main meat the little people eat during the Winter is frog hams. Getting in the supply of hams for the Winter is hard work and very exciting. First, the big frogs have to be caught. Then the hams are salted and smoked in the Teenie Weenie smokehouse, where they are left hanging until needed.

For a number of days the little men had been looking for a spot where frogs were plentiful. Very few were found in the creek that runs near the village. Finally, the Chinaman discovered plenty of frogs in a pond that was connected with the creek.

"That's a long way off," said the Old Soldier with a wooden leg when the Chinaman reported his find. "We ought to have some sort of a boat. It will be rather hard work carrying all the meat in pea-pod canoes. It's a long way to that pond."

"We could build a raft big enough to carry a whole crew of frog hunters," suggested the Sailor.

"CUT ME OUT."

The TEENIE WEEENIES

BY WM. DONAHUE

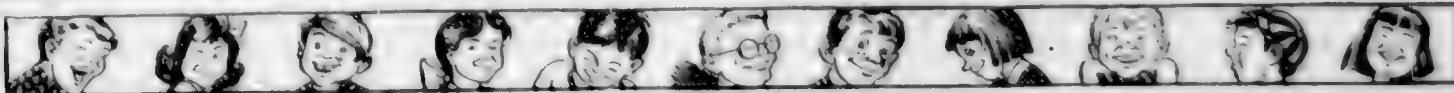

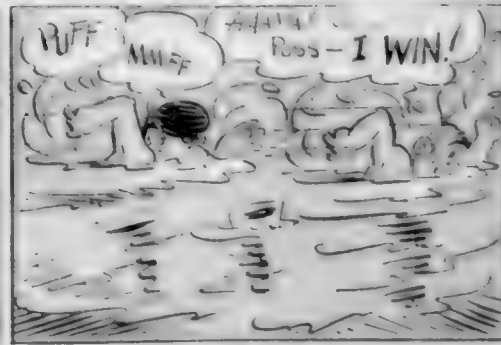

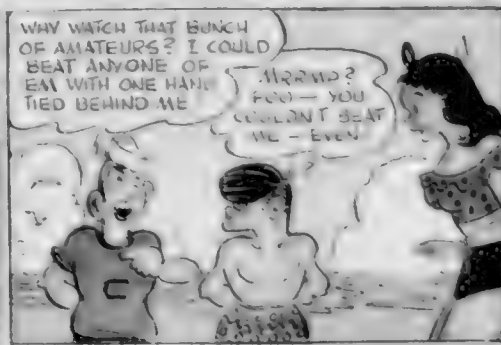

"There's a board lying down by the creek that we could use."

"Why not?" exclaimed the Old Soldier. "We have plenty of lumber and a deck of wall board and it won't take any time to build a house on the board. We can pole it down to the pond and eat and sleep on the raft. That will save the long trip back and forth and make the work easier."

Some of the men put the board in the creek while the Old Soldier planned the cabin to be built on it. For several days the men carried lumber down to the creek and also a number of playing cards, which the Teenie Weenies find very useful for wall board. The Old Soldier set up a shop near the creek and as the lumber was cut to fit, the rest of the Teenie Weenies carried it onto the board and began building the cabin.

When the cabin was finished it was given a coat of waterproof paint, and then the raft was outfitted with everything necessary for a frog hunt.
